

Millennial Conservatism and Civic Engagement: No, Really, What Do Young Conservatives Want?

Jane Coaston
MTV News

Abstract

Young conservatives are here to stay, and in 2016, they voted in higher numbers -- and exhibited higher engagement with candidates and issues -- than they had in the past 20 years. But millennial conservatives aren't social conservatives, and they aren't necessarily fiscal conservatives, either. Jane Coaston reviewed the latest polling data and analytics in a discussion about what we're hearing -- and not hearing -- from a demographic that will impact our politics, and our policies, for decades to come.

CivEd Talks

Millennial Conservatism and Civic Engagement: No, Really, What Do Young Conservatives Want?

Jane Coaston, political reporter, MTV News

CivEd Talks are dynamic, short, and quick-paced presentations by members of the civic learning and democratic engagement community intended to inspire and challenge our collective imagination and thinking. These stories reflect the individual's genuine experience with and relevant knowledge of their selected topic.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nRiORukF4Kg&feature=youtu.be>

Author Biography

Jane Coaston is a political reporter for MTV News based in Washington, DC. Her reporting has focused recently on the political right and the Republican Party. A native of Cincinnati, Ohio, she attended the University of Michigan.